

The hole was as deep as a well and at last she landed at the bottom with a huge THUMP! Alice lookt around and she was amazed at what she sor. This was no ordinary rabbit hole. all around there were bookshelves and mirrors, plant pots and clocks... it wos as if she was stepping in to her grandma's bungalow. "How peculiar she whispered to herself. Alice crept slowlee towards a door and wondered what might be on the otha side. What an inquisitive little girl she is As she reached the door she realised it was as tiny as a door in a doll's house and there was no way she was going to squeeze through She looked up, thinking she would be able to climb her way out of the hole but there was no chans... it was way too high. Alice fell to the floor and began to cry. What was she going to do Suddenly, she noticed somethink out of the corner of her igh.

Checklist: You could tick them off as you spot and edit them.

x8 spelling mistakes

x5 punctuation mistakes - ABC
(capital letter)